THE FIRST SESSION was called to order by the President, Mr. Harris, at 9 A.M. on Thursday, 29 December; about 120 persons were present. Papers 1-7 were read and discussed. The session was adjourned at 12:05 P.M.

At 2 P.M. the Society met jointly with the Modern Language Association for a panel discussion of the MLA Foreign Language Program. Among the papers read at this meeting were two by members of the Society, A. A. Hill and W. E. Sweet. The joint session was adjourned at 5:30 P.M.

THE ANNUAL INFORMAL BANQUET for members and their guests was held at 7 P.M., with 66 persons in attendance. Mr. Cassidy read a verse parody, A Modern Linguistician. After the banquet Mr. Harris gave the Presidential Address: Transformation in linguistic structure. About 100 persons were present.

THE BUSINESS MEETING (THIRD SESSION) was called to order by Mr. Harris at 9 A.M. on Friday, 30 December. The minutes of the preceding meeting were called for. The Secretary reported that the minutes of the Twenty-Ninth Annual Meeting, held in Detroit on 28-29 December 1954, were being distributed to the members of the Society; and that the minutes of the Seventeenth Summer Meeting, held in Washington on 29-30 July 1955, would appear in Bulletin No. 29. It was voted that the reading of these minutes be dispensed with, and that they be accepted.

The Secretary presented the following report, which was ordered to be received and filed:

The total membership was last reported to the Society as 1025. Three deaths during 1954 were reported in the last Bulletin, and we now record with sorrow the death of two other members during 1954 not previously reported, that of W. D. Preston and Hermann Almstedt. We therefore started the year with 1020 active members.

There were 133 new members, and six reinstatements. Twenty-seven were dropped for nonpayment of dues, and 40 resigned: Bartlett, Blair, Bottke, Church, Collinson, D'Amato, DeFrancis, Duncan, Dunn, Efroymson, Gim, Goedsche, Hannesson, Heckel, D. I. Hirsch, Hutter, Keniston, Larsen, Lauriault, Leathers, W. Lees, Lombardi, Manoil, Medan, Moghaddam, Neto, Peruzzi, A. Petersen, Renou, D. F. Robinson, Rumberger, A. Schultz, Selcke, Shiras, Skelton, Soedoro, Spotts, Tolstoy, J. C. Wells, T. Yamamoto.

We record with sorrow the death of six members during 1955: Carl D. Buck, James F. McCauley, and Charles M. Taylor, reported in the last Bulletin; Charles J. Ogden, Archer M. Huntington, and Guido H. Stempel.

On 15 December 1955 we had then an active membership of 1086, and a total listing of 1090, a net gain of 66 as against a net gain of 49 for the year preceding.

We started the year with 21 Honorary Members, and at the last meeting elected three, Messrs. Friedrich and Leumann and Miss Mohrmann.

Domestic library subscriptions were 222, of which 15 were new. There were 8 failures to renew. This represents a net gain of 9 over the last reported figure.

Foreign library subscriptions were 288, of which 57 were new. There were 23 failures to renew—a net gain of 30 over the last reported figure.

The total net gain in subscriptions, personal and library, is thus 104, as against a net gain of 72 for 1954. The number of Student Memberships continues to grow at a normal rate, there being this year 91. There are nine Associate Members.

It should perhaps be added that this is a relatively heavy increase, and has resulted in increasing the print order for LANGUAGE to 1950 copies, a figure which will soon be increased once more.

As Treasurer, Mr. Hill presented the following report:

Linguistic Society of America

Investment in Series G United States Bonds..... 8,000.00

The society has the above investment in bonds. The L.S.A. Endowment totals $4,635.50. Not all of this sum (which represents accumulation, some of which came in as late as 1955) is specifically represented in the total of $8,000. In fact, it would be difficult to determine just which portion of the $8,000 was paid from endowment funds and which from regular free funds, but, for all practical purposes, it may be assumed that only the excess ($3,364.50 over the amount of the endowment) is invested from regular free funds. It may be noted that the revenue from the bonds whether endowment or regular is used for the same purpose.

It was voted to adopt the Treasurer's report and order it filed, subject to completion of the Auditors' report for inclusion in the Bulletin.¹

On behalf of the Executive Committee, Mr. Hill presented the following report:

During the year, the Executive Committee took the following action by correspondence:

1. Approved the University of Michigan's nomination of J. Kurylowicz as Collitz Professor for 1956.
2. Adopted a resolution that no paper should hereafter be given at a meeting of the Society without having been first selected by the Executive Committee or its duly constituted representatives.
3. Settled final details of date and place of the Thirtieth Annual Meeting, held so as to permit a joint session with the Modern Language Association.
4. Selected the papers for Thirtieth Annual Meeting.

The Executive Committee held a special meeting at the Institute of Languages and Linguistics of Georgetown University in Washington on 28 July 1955. Present were A. H. Marckwardt, H. M. Hoenigswald, E. P. Hamp, and A. A. Hill. B. Bloch acted as proxy for Z. S. Harris, P. L. Garvin as proxy for Y. Malkiel, and S. E. Martin as proxy for R. S. Wells. E. Adelaide Hahn and M. Joos were present by constitutional provision but without vote, and G. L. Trager by invitation.

The Committee took the following action:

1. Elected new members, Nos. 2202-2280.
2. Appointed chairmen for the sessions of the Summer Meeting as follows: Session 1, Mr. Bloch; Session 2, Mr. Marckwardt; Session 3, Miss Hahn.
3. Discussed informally the Society's policy on investments, and agreed that the report of Barrett Herrick and Company, which had since January 1955 been watching our investments, together with correspondence with the Advisory Committee on Investments, should be circulated to the Executive Committee.
4. Discussed at some length the present danger to the American Council of Learned Societies, instructing the Secretary to announce to the membership that the ACLS, which has been so wise and generous in its leadership of linguistic research, is in need of support from individual members of the Society.
5. Unanimously adopted the following resolution concerning the Council's Committee on the Language Program, whose personnel consists largely of members of the Linguistic Society: The Executive Committee of the LSA will welcome, as sole or joint sponsor, the present ACLS Committee on the Language Program, in case that Committee finds it necessary to seek new affiliation.

* The Society received only $1,688.33 of this in cash; the remainder was reinvested by the investment broker as directed. Of the $11,101.76 of new stock, checks were drawn for only $6,122.78 ($6,123.38 less a 60¢ refund), the difference being the amount of cash reinvested by the broker.

^b Adjusted cost is the original cost of the investment less any stock rights or fractional shares sold.

¹ AUDITORS' REPORT: We have examined the Schedule of Assets and Liabilities and the Profit and Loss Statement submitted by the Treasurer of the Linguistic Society of America for the period 15 December 1954 to 15 December 1955, and consider, from a check of the entries in the Ledger, that the Schedule and the Statement are correct.

6. Discussed at length the future of the Linguistic Institute, two members of the Committee on the Place of the Linguistic Institute (Mr. Joos and Mr. Hoenigswald) being present at this meeting; and voted that hereafter there be only one officially titled Linguistic Institute, which necessarily would be the site of the Collitz Professorship and of the Summer Meeting of the Society.

7. Instructed the Secretary to write to the University of Michigan, accepting their invitation to the Linguistic Institute for the summer of 1956; and further instructed the Secretary to inform the University of Michigan that the LSA is not yet ready to act on their invitation for the summer of 1957, though it appreciates the fact that the invitation was for two years in succession.

The regular meeting of the Executive Committee was held 28 December 1955, in the Palmer House, with Z. S. Harris presiding. Present were A. A. Hill, Y. Malkiel, H. M. Hoenigswald, M. Joos, and A. H. Marckwardt; E. Adelaide Hahn was proxy for R. S. Wells. Present by constitutional provision but without vote were B. Bloch, F. Edgerton, E. Haugen, G. S. Lane, W. F. Twaddell, and J. Whatmough.

The Committee took the following action:

1. Elected new members, nos. 2281-2325.
2. Informally discussed the reports of the Secretary and the Treasurer.
3. Voted a gift of $150.00 to the Comité International Permanent de Linguistes.
4. After discussing the expected yield from the Society's several endowment funds, voted that it was the sense of the Executive Committee that the Collitz Professor should receive an emolument substantially higher than a normal summer professorship, though not one comparable to a full year's academic salary. In consequence, it was left to the discretion of the Secretary to discuss, with future Directors and Associate Directors of Linguistic Institutes, the suitable figure for individual Collitz Professors. In case the yield from the Collitz Endowment should in any year be more than is needed for the Professorship, the Secretary was instructed to hold back the excess for reinvestment in the Collitz Endowment. The Secretary was further instructed to apply, after due consultation with Directors and Associate Directors of future Institutes, the income from Regular Endowment to other purposes in support of the Linguistic Institute.
5. Instructed the Treasurer to clear the accumulation of credits for overpayments still carried on the Society's books, by transferring all credits originating in or before the year 1950 to the Society's regular funds.
6. Discussed the report of the Nominating Committee, and agreed that its action should be regularized by Presidential appointment of Mr. Whatmough to fill the unexpired term of M. B. Emeneau on the Nominating Committee.
7. Discussed applications for Emeritus Membership, and agreed to recommend to the Society the following candidates for exemption from further payment of dues: P. F. Baum, B. Geiger, E. A. Gellot, O. R. Sellers.
8. Upon the nomination of the University of Michigan, elected Mr. Twaddell Associate Director of the Linguistic Institute for 1956.
9. Voted, in response to a letter of D. W. Reed informing the Committee of a proposal of the Philological Association of the Pacific Coast that that organization be granted the privilege of affiliation with the LSA, that the Secretary be instructed to inform Mr. Reed and the authorities of the Philological Association of the Pacific Coast that the Society had already voted to look with favor on the establishment of a branch of the Linguistic Society on the Pacific Coast, and would prefer this action to any affiliation with an organization not devoted wholly to linguistics.
10. Instructed the Secretary to offer affiliation, but without exchange of membership, to the newly reconstituted Linguistic Society of India.

Acting on the recommendation of the Executive Committee, the Society voted to exempt Messrs. Baum, Geiger, Gellot, and Sellers from further payment of dues. Thereupon it was voted that the report of the Executive Committee be received and filed.

Mr. Bloch, Editor and Chairman of the Committee on Publications, presented the following report, which was ordered to be received and filed:

During the year 1955 the Society issued the following publications:

LANGUAGE, Volume 31; 591 pages.

BULLETIN No. 28: Proceedings of the Chicago Summer Meeting 1954, Proceedings of the Detroit Meeting 1954, List of Members 1954; 75 pages.

Index to Language 26-30 (1950-1954), prepared by D. L. Olmsted; 73 pages.

Language Dissertation No. 51: The historical development of tenses from Late Latin to Old French, by Howard B. Garey; 107 pages.

Language Dissertation No. 52: The syntax of modern colloquial Japanese, by Eleanor Harz Jorden; 135 pages.

Language Dissertation No. 53: The status significance of an isolated urban dialect, by George N. Putnam, M.M., and Edna M. O'Hern; 32 pages.

My warm thanks are due to those who have helped me in my editorial work—above all, this year as last, to Werner Winter, who has proofread the galleys of all our publications; and this year also to Howard B. Garey, who has proofread as much of them as his many duties have allowed.

To Mr. Twaddell's question, whether additional funds to pay for editorial assistance might not lighten the Editor's task, Mr. Bloch replied that the only effective aid, a full-time assistant, was beyond the Society's resources, and that the Editor would continue to prepare the Society's publications, without such help, as efficiently as he could.

The President, acting on the Executive Committee's instructions, appointed Mr. Whatmough to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Emeneau on the Nominating Committee.

The Secretary read a telegram from R. Jakobson, the presidential nominee, expressing his regret that a sudden illness had prevented him from attending the meeting.

On behalf of the Nominating Committee (H. Kurath chm., G. S. Lane, M. B. Emeneau), the Secretary presented the following slate:

President: Roman Jakobson, Harvard University

Vice-President: Mary R. Haas, University of California, Berkeley

Secretary-Treasurer: Archibald A. Hill, University of Texas

Executive Committee 1956-57, Murray Fowler, University of Wisconsin, and

Herbert Paper, University of Michigan

Editor: Bernard Bloch, Yale University

Committee on Publications 1956-57: Winfred S. Lehmann, University of Texas

Nominating Committee 1956-58: Joseph K. Yamagiwa, University of Michigan

The Secretary reported that all nominees of the Nominating Committee had signified their willingness to serve if elected. He noted that the two nominations by mail ballot did not require action, since one was for a person no longer a member of the Society, and the other for a member who had refused to serve if elected. The President called for nominations from the floor, but there were none. On unanimous vote the Secretary was instructed to cast one ballot for all nominees of the Nominating Committee, who were accordingly declared elected.

The Secretary presented the following reports on the three Linguistic Institutes on behalf of the Directors, Messrs, Metcalf, Marckwardt, and Hill.

I

Following upon the Institute of 1954, a second Linguistic Institute was held from 27 June to 20 August 1955 under the joint sponsorship of the University of Chicago and the Linguistic Society of America. As in 1954, parallel institutes were held at the University of Michigan and at Georgetown University.

The Faculty of the Chicago Institute consisted of Isidore Dyen (Yale University), William J. Gedney (American Council of Learned Societies), H. Allan Gleason Jr. (Hartford Seminary Foundation), Charles F. Hockett (Cornell University), Fang-Kuei Li (University of Washington), Floyd G. Lounsbury (Yale University), Robert O. Swan (University of Pennsylvania), and Donald E. Walker (Rice Institute), and twelve members of the staff of the University of Chicago: George V. Bobrinskoy, John Corominas, William F. Edgerton, Gösta Franzen, Ignace J. Gelb, Hans G. Güterbock, Eric P. Hamp, Thorkild Jacobsen, Norman A. McQuown, George J. Metcalf, James H. Sledd, and John A. Wilson.

The Administrative Committee consisted of Messrs. Bobrinskoy, Edgerton, Gelb, Hamp (Secretary), Li (Assistant Director), McQuown, Metcalf (Director), and Sledd.

Assistants to the Staff were Lloyd A. Hale (University of Chicago) in Phonetics and Phonemics, William Gage (Cornell University) in Morphemics, Donald DeBlois (Hartford Seminary Foundation) in Historical Linguistics, Sashi Prabha Gupta (University of Chicago) in Hindi, Winarti Partaningrat (Columbia University) in Indonesian, Paisarl Koomalayavisai (University of Chicago) in Thai, and Thomas Stocker (Northwestern University) in the Language Laboratory.

Thirty-two courses were offered in a program emphasizing linguistic aspects of Southeast Asia: linguistic techniques; the relations of language to culture, psychology, and literature; seminars in comparative Thai linguistics, North American indigenous languages, and machine aids and mathematical accessories in linguistics; Indo-European languages and literatures; languages and literatures of the Near East and of Southeast Asia; American Indian languages; and intensive courses in Hindi, Indonesian, and Thai.

The courses were attended by 65 students, including 12 Ph.D.'s.

The 1955 Chicago Linguistic Institute included an evening lecture series on The languages of Asia and comparative linguistics with the following speakers: Henry M. Hoenigswald, Fang-Kuei Li, Isidore Dyen, Charles F. Hockett, Murray B. Emeneau, Hans G. Güterbock, and Samuel E. Martin. Informal luncheon conferences dealt with a variety of linguistic topics, presented by H. Allan Gleason Jr., Charles F. Hockett, Donald E. Walker, William J. Gedney, Floyd G. Lounsbury, Thorkild Jacobsen, E. Sollberger, and Sydney M. Lamb.

In preparing for the Linguistic Institute of 1955, the Committee on Linguistics was again faced with the problem of two competing Institutes. It was necessary to plan the summer's work in co-operation with the directors of the Institutes at the University of Chicago and at Georgetown University. As a result, duplication of course offerings in specialized areas was generally avoided. All three Institutes had a full complement of basic courses, but these are a continuing responsibility of any linguistic program, and they present no danger of insufficient enrollment.

In its specialized offerings the University of Michigan capitalized upon its strong tradition of applying the concepts and findings of linguistic science to practical teaching situations. Work of this nature was given for English, English as a foreign language, Latin, French, and Spanish. All of this tied in very nicely with some of the special programs offered for teachers of foreign languages.

As usual, work in the history and structure of the English language was given special prominence. There were five intensive language courses, that in Modern Hebrew being offered for the first time. After a lapse of several summers, the course in Field Methods was again given; an Ilocano informant was supplied for this course by the Department of Anthropology. There was a substantial list of offerings in historical and comparative linguistics. Altogether, thirty-two courses were offered in the Institute.

Courses in the Linguistic Institute were taught by the following members of the Michigan staff: James W. Downer, Gerald Dykstra, George Herman, Lawrence B. Kiddle, Sherman M. Kuhn, Robert Lado, Albert H. Marckwardt (Director), Herbert H. Paper, Herbert Penzl, Hide Shohara, Guy E. Swanson, Waldo E. Sweet, Carlton F. Wells, Joseph K. Yamagiwa.

The local staff of the Institute was augmented by the following visitors: Harry Hoiyer, University of California at Los Angeles; William G. Moulton, Cornell University, Associate Director; Robert L. Politzer, Harvard University; John Richard Walsh, University of Edinburgh; Uriel Weinreich, Columbia University; Francis J. Whitfield, University of California, Berkeley.

The total enrollment in all courses of the Linguistic Institute was 546, as compared with 364 for 1954. In 1955 there were 55 undergraduate elections, 317 graduate elections, 140 visitors, and 34 Ph.D. guests. These figures represent an increase of 86 credit elections and 93 visitors over the preceding year. A total of 132 students were enrolled for two or more courses.

Thirteen students in the Institute received summer study aids from the American Council of Learned Societies, as compared with nine in 1954. The student body also included two Rockefeller Foundation fellows from India and a Fulbright scholar from Germany. Eleven holders of the doctorate received guest privileges from the Graduate School.

The semiweekly Forum Lectures were planned as two concurrent series, one presenting papers dealing with recent developments in various broad fields of linguistic science, the other demonstrating relationship between linguistics and other disciplines. Despite the hot weather, attendance was very satisfactory, averaging 92 per lecture. The weekly luncheons were devoted to research papers on specific topics, often very specialized in nature. Attendance at these averaged 48. Guest lecturers included Bertil Malmberg of the University of Lund, André Martinet, and Morris Swadesh.

A little publicized but very fruitful activity of the Institute was a conference on English language courses for prospective teachers of English. A. A. Hill, F. G. Cassidy, James H. Sledd, and Raven I. McDavid Jr., all of whom have had experience with courses of this nature, were brought in for a weekend to discuss the impact of structural linguistics on the training of English teachers. Work papers had been prepared in advance; the director of the Institute presided over the five discussion sessions, two of which were opened to members of the Michigan workshop in Grammar and Usage. The results of these sessions will form the basis of a similar conference to be held at the annual meeting of the Modern Language Association in December.

The Linguistic Institute at Georgetown in 1955 offered a total of 45 courses, either as part of the Institute proper, or as part of the Georgetown Summer program, fully open to students registered in the Institute. In all phases of the program there were a total of 265 students, of whom 240 took one or more courses listed in the Linguistic Institute program. As in the past year, the Georgetown Institute endeavored to gear its offerings to those of the other two Linguistic Institutes so as to avoid more than an inescapable minimum of overlapping. In consequence, work was offered in the following languages of Europe and Asia, which it was felt would make a representative list and one likely not to interfere with offerings elsewhere: Chinese, Japanese, Korean, Visayan, Turkish, Arabic, Persian, and Hungarian. In line with the same policy, our one course in linguistic geography concerned itself with Arabic dialects. Besides these, there were language courses aimed at practical command of English, French, German, and Russian, and a full offering of courses in general linguistics and methodology of language teaching. Historical studies were offered in Romance, Germanic, Slavic, and Indo-European.

Courses primarily a part of the Linguistic Institute were offered by the following regular members of the Georgetown Staff: F. D. Eddy, P. L. Garvin, A. A. Hill, H. Mueller, M. Sa'id, G. L. Trager, Ruth H. Weinstein, J. Young, Elizabeth J. Young.

The Georgetown staff was augmented by the following visitors: Henry M. Hoenigswald, University of Pennsylvania, Collitz Professor; Gordon H. Fairbanks, Cornell University; Charles A. Ferguson, Harvard University; Samuel E. Martin, Yale University; Robert P. Stockwell, Foreign Service Institute; Mark H. Watkins, Howard University.

This year the Forum Lectures were offered twice a week, under the joint sponsorship of the Institute of Languages and Linguistics and the Washington Linguistic Club. Visiting lecturers were Bertil Malmberg, University of Lund; Bernard Bloch, Yale University; Fritz Frauchiger, Foreign Service Institute; Harry Hoiyer, University of California, Los Angeles; Fang-Kuei Li, University of Washington; and A. L. Davis, American University. In addition, lectures were given by the following members of the Linguistic Institute faculty: George L. Trager, Paul Garvin, Gordon H. Fairbanks, Hugo Mueller, Charles A. Ferguson, Samuel E. Martin, Ruth H. Weinstein, and Mark H. Watkins.

An important feature of the summer's program was the Summer Meeting of the Linguistic Society, which was well attended and of great value to the students enrolled in the Institute. The Institute of Languages and Linguistics wishes to express its gratitude for the opportunity of entertaining the Linguistic Society, and hopes that the opportunity may be repeated.

ARCHIBALD A. HILL

The following report of the Society's Delegate to the American Council of Learned Societies was presented by J M. Cowan:

Your delegate and the Secretary attended the annual meeting of the American Council of Learned Societies, held 19-21 January 1955 in Washington. The program provided for a conference of secretaries of the constituent societies and a meeting of this group with the Board of Directors. In the afternoon of the second day, the Council was divided into four panels, one of which was chaired by your delegate, to discuss the functions of the ACLS and the problems that confront it. The complete report of the meeting is published in ACLS Bulletin 48.

The activities of the Council's Committee on the Language Program continue to be of outstanding interest to this Society and to the field of linguistics. These are described in the Committee's report as follows:

Theodore Andersson of Yale University was appointed to replace Stephen A. Freeman of Middlebury College, who resigned to devote himself to work overseas. John B. Carroll resigned from the Committee because of the pressure of other duties; Martin Joos was chosen to replace him as secretary. Other members of the Committee for 1953-54 were re-appointed. The Committee met in Washington in January, April, and November of 1954. Two informal sessions were held in Washington in May, one with representatives of the United States Armed Forces Institute and Henry Holt and Company, another of members who were in Washington at the end of May. The Committee continued its direction of the English for Foreigners Program and the Program in Oriental Languages during 1954. Both programs are now well advanced.

The program (on contract with the United States Information Agency) for the preparation of materials for teaching English as a foreign language continued. The English textbooks for speakers of Korean, Indonesian, and Turkish have been published by the ACLS Publications Office, which was set up by Martin Joos last year, and is being continued under the direction of Helen Nash. It is expected that the texts for speakers of Serbo-Croatian and Greek will be in print early in 1955, and those for speakers of Persian, Chinese and Vietnamese by the end of 1955. It is hoped that the texts for Thai and Burmese may also be completed by that time.

The tooling program in Oriental languages, financed by a grant from the Ford Foundation, completed the second of its three years in September, 1954. By the summer of 1955, the Committee hopes to have seen through to completion: descriptive analyses of Arabic (Egyptian), Berber (West), Chinese (Wu), Georgian, Indonesian, and Javanese; basic courses in Armenian (East), Chinese (Amoy), Chinese (Literary), Georgian, Uigur, and Vietnamese; student readers in Mongolian and Thai (published); dictionaries in Burmese, Indonesian, and Korean; materials on the writing systems of Burmese (published), Persian, Thai, and Tibetan.

The shortage of trained personnel for both projects continues to be felt, as the pressures of other demands rise. Although the number of novices added to the Roster of Linguists holds steady at about 75 per year, the level of competence is in most cases not yet adequate to the requirements for specific tasks.

The Committee continues to consider the need for speeding up the basic research and research training program and to seek special funds (not earmarked for projects of practical application) to encourage such basic training.

The Committee was able from funds granted by the Carnegie Foundation and from its own Linguistic Research Fund to make 43 grants in aid (totalling $14,251.44) for summer study in linguistics.

Likewise from the Linguistic Research Fund, grants were made to Nicholas Chiacu ($1100) for work on a Macedo-Rumanian grammar, to George L. Trager ($250) for travel expenses of his Taos informant, to William E. Welmers ($1500) for research in African languages, and to Henry Lee Smith Jr. ($300) for work on the development of English reading and writing materials.

Invited by the Foreign Language Program of the Modern Language Association, the Committee as a whole participated in a Conference on Linguistics and Language Teaching, thus initiating what may prove to be a period of closer liaison with modern language teachers.

Following is the report of Randolph Quirk, the Society's Delegate to the Fifth International Congress of Onomastic Sciences, presented by the Secretary:

The Fifth International Congress of Onomastic Sciences met in Salamanca, Spain, 11-15 April 1955. Among members of the LSA present at the Congress were W. S. Allen, E. B. Atwood, J. Berry, R. Quirk, and J. B. Rudnyćkyj. Also present were several members of the affiliated Philological Society, whose Delegate was C. L. Wrenn. Among other societies and institutions represented were the American Name Society, the Institut Géographique National, the Instituto de Glottologia, the Centre International de Dialectologie Générale, and Svenska Ortnamensarkivet.

Over 80 papers were presented to some half-dozen sections. Though many of the papers concerned history, anthropology, folklore, and related subjects, there was a core of papers of special concern to linguists. Among them were those of A. W. Moverley and A. S. C. Ross on the place names of Pitcairn Island, G. Nandris on the relation of ethnology to toponymy, V. Nissilä on Slavic elements in Finnish place names, J. B. Rudnyćkyj on the types of Canadian place-name formation, and R. Schmittlein on Burgundian and other European names. There were etymological studies by A. Carnoy on Basque linguistic substrata in Spanish, A. Dauzat on the Proto-Indo-European element bol, A. le Flamenc on the Celtic etymology of Aragon, J. B. Jensen on the place-name roots cal- and car-, G. Langenfelt on the meaning of the elements in Stockholm, F. R. Adrados on place names and Ursprache, and R. Sindou on names derived from bebros. H. Moser examined names from a psycholinguistic standpoint, and K. Treimer applied the methods of comparative philology to names. J. Lohmann discussed philosophical and linguistic approaches to such entities as name, word, and meaning, and W. S. Allen considered the relation of proper names to linguistic structures.

Outside the work sessions the delegates witnessed Spanish hospitality, a folk dance festival, and a solemn ceremony at which the International Committee's Secretary-General, H. J. van de Wijer, was invested with the degree of Doctor honoris causa in the University of Salamanca. A social high point of the Congress was the Fiesta Taurina and Campers, at which a number of delegates indicated that tauromachic abilities were not incompatible with onomastic interests.

The President appointed a Committee on Resolutions consisting of G. S. Lane (chairman), J. K. Yamagiwa, and M. Fowler.

After discussion by Messrs. Whatmough, Cowan, Haugen, Malkiel, and Joos, it was moved and carried that the Secretary should hereafter send out programs by first class mail, and that it should be left to his discretion to send out calls for papers at the Annual Meeting at a date sufficiently early to allow the programs to be put into the mails appreciably before the Christmas rush. The Secretary replied that he would hereafter send out at least a first notice, in a separate first class mailing, at about the time of the Summer Meeting.

The Business Meeting was adjourned at 10:15 A.M.
